

House Washing - Benefits

A clean, well-maintained home can make you feel proud of it. It can also improve your mood by making you want to spend time outside and enjoy the weather!

The exterior of your home should be cleaned at least yearly to prevent dirt from accumulating and mold growth. Pressure washing can help eliminate this buildup and halt organic growth, reducing the likelihood of costly repairs down the line.

You should consult a professional to determine the best way to power wash your house. Depending on the material you have, high pressure may be necessary or soft washing might be better for delicate materials such as shingles on your roof and glass doors and windows.

You'll probably need to rent a pressure washer from a local rental company if you have a large home. The cost will vary depending on the size of your property, but Angi estimates that it costs about $100 to $650 for a standard home.

A professional house washer will know how to properly apply cleaning solutions and the right water pressure to ensure your house will look new again. They will also use the proper detergents and chemicals to remove mold, mildew, and other contaminants from your home's exterior surfaces.

They'll clean your siding, brick, stucco, and wood and remove algae and other stains built up over the years. Check out Elite Power Washing Services, LLC.

Increasing Your Home's Value

A dirty, grimy exterior can lower the overall value of your house. This can be especially problematic if you're planning to sell your home. On the other hand, a clean, gleaming surface can increase your home's value, which will help you find the right buyer and get top dollar for your property.

In addition to removing dirt and grime, pressure washing will remove mold and other contaminants that could be hiding in your siding or causing it to discolor. This is important if you're planning to repaint your home, as these contaminants can damage your paint.

The chemicals used to clean your home can also be toxic, so choosing the best option for your property is important. For example, you'll need a stronger solution for brick and stucco than you will for smooth surfaces.

You'll also need a ladder to reach higher areas and specialized gear for soft washing your home. It might take up to three hours for your home to be soft-washed, so you must have plenty of time to do the job.

Adding Curb Appeal

In addition to eliminating dirt and grime, power washing can help to add curb appeal to your property. For example, it can help clean away cobwebs, usually found on the side of buildings or in corners. It can also eliminate other problems, such as moss or mildew.

When you consider all of the benefits of house washing, it's clear that it can be an excellent choice for homeowners and businesses across Long Island. So contact the professional if you need a quick and affordable wash or want to increase your home's value.